A note from Judith

It was another wonderful year for Women’s Storybook Project of Texas! As our dedicated volunteers continued to help connect children with their incarcerated mothers, many additional, exciting things happened:

• WSP has a new office. After learning that the area of our previous office had been rezoned, a board member helped us find a new home.

• We had a successful WSP 2nd Annual Fundraising Luncheon. Our guest speakers were a mother who had been in our program and her daughter, along with Melodye Nelson, TDCJ Regional District Leader.

• We were fortunate to receive additional awards and media exposure in 2018:
  1. a 4th Governor’s Criminal Justice Volunteer Award
  2. Texas Center for the Book 2018 Literacy Award
  3. Articles in Woman’s Day Magazine and Austin Woman Magazine
  4. a vimeo produced by Dallas WFAA TV which was aired on several stations

• WSP has attained the goal of hiring a full-time, paid Executive Director, Jill González. I’m so pleased that Jill will be leading this special program into the future.

Of course, we wouldn’t be where we are without you, our volunteers and supporters! I hope you enjoy reading our annual report and seeing our accomplishments, and I’m very grateful for your help with “Turning Pages… Turning Lives”.

Warm regards,

Judith

A note from Jill

I am thrilled to come on board as the Executive Director for Women’s Storybook Project! I joined the team in September and have been warmly received by staff, volunteers and board members. The dedication to the mission here is inspiring and the work is joyful.

Highlights of my first four months included meeting WSP team leaders, accepting the Texas Center for the Book Literacy Award on behalf of Storybook Project, the Reader’s Circle Reception and recognizing volunteers as Stars at the Trail of Lights.

Our future is bright. We are moving forward with implementing new technology, opening units and planning for stable and strategic growth. We’ll keep you posted as we progress! Thank you all for your continued support. I too, am grateful for all you share with Women’s Storybook Project.

Most sincerely,

Jill
Did you know? Women’s Storybook Project celebrated its 15th anniversary. We’ve come a long way and made a difference in Austin, Texas and beyond!

WSP began service in the Hilltop Unit in 2003. Since that time, we have grown to serve:

2003 Lane Murray Unit
2006 Hilltop Unit (restart)
2007 Woodman State Jail
2008 Mountain View

2009 Plane State Jail
2010 Henley State Jail
2016 San Saba Transfer Facility
2016 Lockhart Correctional Facility
2017 Hobby Unit
2018 brought growth, change, exposure and accolades. We were proud to share our story and invite friends to join us on our journey.

A most notable change, a change of address happened on March 1, 2018. We now reside at 5524 Bee Caves Road, Building M, Suite 131, Austin, TX 78746. Please stop by and say hello!

Spurred on by assistance from Katy Sloan-Mitchell and her team at Google, WSP started a pilot program to send children a link to an mp3 file instead of a cd. Jeri Saper and Mona Carver have been instrumental to this process.

Our volunteer base continues to grow and in 2018 we added two multi-generational groups to our team. Both Generation Serve and Austin Allies provide opportunities for families to volunteer together.

Jill González joined WSP in September as our Executive Director. Sun Connor became the full-time Operations Manager.

Traditional media took note of Women’s Storybook Project. We were profiled by WFAA in Dallas in April and Women’s Day Magazine in September. The stories brought calls, emails and letters from folks wondering how they could help us out and even start their own storybook type program.

Modern media has taken a shine to Storybook, too. Laura Summerhill and Judith are expert podcast guests. Modern Mrs. Darcy and Connect Kindness featured WSP in August and September respectively. Freethink, a video news service profiled us in October.

Volunteer Debra Taylor, and Women’s Storybook Project with her were awarded the Governor’s Criminal Justice Volunteer Award (our 4th!) in August. Congratulations Debra!

Judith was honored to be the guest speaker at the inaugural Windham School District Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon in November in Huntsville. Volunteers from Houston and Austin were able to attend.
Appreciation

The Texas Center for the Book presented WSP with its 2018 Literacy Award on October 25th. “The purpose of this award is to highlight a winning organization while promoting a greater appreciation of literacy efforts statewide,” said coordinator Rebekah Manley. “The judges recognized how Women’s Storybook Project of Texas utilizes books as a powerful connector and encourages reading across generations.” $1,000 was awarded to Storybook for continuation of our work.

“Thank you for giving me this opportunity to give something back to my children while I am incarcerated. I hope that you will continue to do this because it helps us women to be mothers even though we are not present. Thank you so much.

In recognition of the service given by the volunteers of Women’s Storybook Project, the Trail of Lights Foundation selected our group as one of the 2018 Stars at the Trail.

On December 4th, close to 100 Women’s Storybook Project volunteers and their family members boarded two buses and were treated to a V.I.P. experience at the Trail of Lights. Highlights included cocoa and cookies in our very own hospitality tent, a Ferris wheel or carousel ride and an evening without the regular trail crowds. It was a fantastic evening and so well deserved. We hope to do it again!
Storybook outreach efforts reap success and foster growth.

Our second annual fundraising luncheon brought over 200 new friends to the table and raised over $101,000 in pledges over the next three years.

A successful annual fund drive raised $13,600 for essential expenses such as salaries and supplies.

Chiefly for program costs, computers and capacity building; we received $51,300 in grant income in 2018. (Grantors are listed in donor acknowledgements)

For the fifth year, our biggest fan and in-kind donor, Besher Garcia organized an in-store event at BookPeople. In addition to collecting books, he used his amazing tap dance skills to raise funds for WSP. For $30.00, Besher tap danced to any requested song! He raised over $300.00 that night. Thank you Besher!

In the twelfth year, the Barnes and Noble Book Drive brought in over 650 books valued at over $5,000. Many thanks to all the amazing volunteers who greeted customers, the staff at the Sunset Valley store and Emilie Crimmins for organizing it all!

“Storybook Ladies,
This program has made a wonderful impact on me as well as on my children. For me, it gives me a way to choose a book, read it to my children and communicate feelings to them that I can’t normally do on paper. For my kids, it gives them a way to hear my voice whenever they want, and to read along with me. It also encourages them to read and that’s important because I love to read too. Thank you so much for this. It’s a blessing and a treasure.
– incarcerated mother
It’s a small idea, with a big impact. In 2018, we mailed books and recordings to children in 108 Texas counties and 23 states across America.

“Thank you for funding such an amazing project! My grandchildren were so happy to receive such a thoughtful gift from Mom. They heard her voice and were happy beyond words, especially because this is a gift that keeps giving. My nine-year-old granddaughter who loves books said she would listen to her CD every night before bedtime. The three-year-old couldn’t believe he was hearing Mom reading to him. What a blessing. Many thanks and blessings to all who made this gift possible.”

– Caregiver

“Women at Storybook,

Thank you again for what you do to keep me connected to my kids. Being here at Mt. View in Gatesville, I am far from home and don’t get to see my kids regularly. Doing storybook means a lot to me and my kids. They look forward to it every month. And are now making requests! I’ve enclosed a donation to help with it on the outside of these walls. Please look for Amelia Bedelia books stage 4. My daughter loves them! May your work be blessed abundantly.

Thank You!

Alecia - incarcerated mom and donor
